WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1881. KING KALAKAUA'S TOUR.

A TALE WITH HIS ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

How the Monarch has enjoyed his Trip around the World-The Countries he has heard of the assassination in Paris, and was How the Monarch has enjoyed his Trip around the World-The Countries he has Visited and how he was Received-How he will spend his time in the United

William N. Armstrong, Attorney-General of the Kingdom of Hawaii, arrived yesterday on the steamer Germanic, after a tour around the world with King Kalakaua. His father was an American missionary to the Kingdom, and Mr. Armstrong was born there. According to the custom of the American residents of the kingdom, his father sent him to this country to be educated. He was a graduate at Yale College and was admitted to the bar in this country. For twenty-five years he practised his profession here, and he also did some newspaper work. About a year and a half ago King Kalakaua offered Mr. Armstrong the position of Attorney-General, which he accepted, In appearance the Attorney-General is thoroughly American. He is of medium

"Yes. He received decorations in every country. I cannot recall them all, In Japan, Egypt, Portugal, Saim and Belgium decorations were bestowed on the King and his suite on the one hand, and the King conferred the decorations of his own country in return. The Queen of England conferred on him the grand cross of St. George and St. Michael, and he bestowed on her the grand cross of the Order of Kameh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kameh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kameh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross of the Order of Kaneh maha and also the grand cross o William N. Armstrong, Attorney-General of is thoroughly American. He is of medium height and is stout. His face is full, his complexion is florid, and his hair is tinged with Mr. Armstrong said that he was given by the King a commission as Minister of State, so that he could meet on equal social standing the nobility of the different countries which the King visited. The other persons who accom-panied the King were Colonel Judd, Chamberpanied the King were Colonel Macfarlane, a lain to the King, and Colonel Macfarlane, a staff officer, who joined the King in England "The King laid no special object in making a tour around the world," said Mr. Armstrong, "beyond a desire to see foreign countries about which he had read a great deal, and to observe their manners and customs. Many foreign ships and travelers come to our country, and the King constantly has met citizens of countries about which he had no personal knowledge." "Was an effort made to encourage emigration to your country?"

"Before starting I was directed by the Government to examine the emigrants of the various countries through whic we passed, to see if we could get a desirable class of foreigners to work on sugar plantations. I found it difficult to get good emigrants who would be suitable to our trepical climate The Northern races cannot work in our temperature. Northern races cannot work in our temperature. We do not want to encourage emigration unless it will benefit the country, could get plenty of Chinese emigrants, but we have more Chinamen now than we want. They have flocked to our shores in large numbers, but they leave their wives behind. We could have secured Indian and Hindoo emigrants, but we found that the class of people who emigrate from these countries is the very lowest. They are inferior to the Chinese, and therefore undesirable. We found the Portuguese emigrants an uncomenly good lot of people. They are industrious, physically healthy, and well adapted to the work in our climate. We can supply our immediate wants for labor for some time to come from the Portuguese emigrants."

How many emigrants do you need?" "Probably in two years we shall want from five to ten thousand." "What inducements does the country offer to emigrants?"

"We set them to work on sugar plantations and give them $8 a month and their board and edging. They have to make a contract to work for from three to five years, and then they become free. They can either remain in the country or go back to their native places?" "Was the trip arranged for the purpose of increasing diplomatic relations with foreign countries?"

" No, that was not an object of the tour, But while in Japan we instituted a treaty (which has been completed) by which we have abolished consular jurisdiction in the Empire We have diplomatic relations with all European countries, but to a larger extent they are

"Will you give a short account of the tour -what co atries you visited, and how yo were received?"

'The King and his suite started January 20, 1881. He went to San Francisco, where he staid one week, and then sailed for Japan, where he remained ten days as the guest of the Emperor. The entertainment was really magnificent, and no expense was spared to make the visit pleasant. The King was received by the military and navy, a palace was put at his disposal, officers from the Depart-ment of Foreign Affairs attended him in the pulace, and a guard of honor was also placed there. He exchanged visits with the Emperor and Empress. A State dinner was given in his honor by the Emperor. During our stay of ten days in Tokio everything was done to make the visit agreable. From there we went to Kobe, in Japan, and to Kioto, where the Governors of the provinces entertained the King. Japanese officials attended him to Nagasaki, where they left him on the borders of the Empire. A Government ship was placed at his disposal to sail to Shanghai. I must add that the courtesy shown the King was attributable in great degree to the kind-ness of John A. Bingham, the American Minister to Japan. It was due to tim that preparations were made by the Government to receive the King. We have no diplomatic representative in Japan; only a cousul.

"The King next went to Shanghai, where he stayed three days. We were received by Chinese officers. We were received by Chinese officers. We were also welcomed by Li-Ha-Chung, Viceroy of the Province of Chi Ry the "Morro Castle," Just at hand, we have received a Full Line of armies, reputed to be the first citizen of the Empire. We next visited Hong Kong, remaining five days and were the guests of the colonial authorities. King Kalakaua being a Mason, and having reached the thirty-third degree, he was handsomely entertained by the Masonic frateraity. From there we went to Siam, and were cordulty received by the King and made his guests for six days. We were in Singapore three days, and during that time the King visited the Kingdom of Johore. Calcutta was the next stopping place, passed through India very rapidly and went to Suez, where the King was received by an embassy from the Khedive of Egypt. He was taken to Cairo and was the guest of the Khe-dive for a week. At Alexandria he dined with the Khedive and attended a ball given in his

"From Alexandria we crossed the Mediterranean to Naples, where we were met by the King and Queen of Italy and remained two days. Rome was the next place visited. The King had a private audiance with the Pope. The conversation was pleasant and friendly, but it had no political or religious bearing. The King was auxious to see the Pope, because one-third of his subjects are boman Catholics. We were all struck with the intimate knowledge which the Pope and Cardinals possessed about Polynesia and our own islands. We remained in Rome two days.

"From Rome we started directly for England, where the King remained for eighteen days and was made the guest of the Queen. He received a great deal of attention from her Royal Majesty, from the Royal family, and Royal Mujesty, from the Royal family, and from the nobility. In Brussels we staid three days, and the King exchanged visits with King Leopold, and inspected the battle field of Waterloo. Berlin was then visited, and we were entertained by the Royal family, the Emperor being absent. The military was exhibited to us during our visit of five days. In Vienna we did not meet the Emperor, as he was absent, but be sent aides de-camp to attend the King. We were in Vienna three days, and then we left it for Paris, where we also stayed three days. The President of the Republic was absent, but he directed that attention be shown the King. We went then to Lisbon by way of Madrid, and were made the guests of the King of Portugal for four days. The King received a State dinner and attended a bull fight. We returned to Madrid for two days, and made a second visit to Paris for two days, and made a second visit to Paris for two days, and made a second visit to Paris for two days more. London was again visited for three days, and then the King started for Scotland.
I left him at Liverpool. He was to have had a reception in Gisagow on September 10, and was to be in Liverpool this evening. To-morrow a banquet will be given him by the Mayor of Liverpool, and on Tuesday he sails for this city on the steamer Caltic."

"What are his plans for this country?"

"He will stay two weeks in the Eastern States, and then go to Virginia, Kentucky and
